HUD Warns Against Rezoning of Property

By PAM TROBOY

Although a special public hearing has been called for 7:30 p.m. tonight to discuss rezoning the site of a proposed Department of Housing and Urban Development approved housing project, the city may have no real alternative.

Plano received formal notification this morning that HUD believes rezoning the property at this time may be suggestive of "potential discriminatory action."

Stressing that the agency is responsible for administering Title VIII of the Civil Rights Act of 1968 (prohibits discrimination in housing on the basis of race, color, religion, sex or national origin), Area Director John R. McDowell warned that the "present course of conduct of the City of Plano raises serious questions regarding the possible violation of Title VIII."

McDowell said HUD will actively investigate and pursue any violation of Title VIII or any other federal law or regulation prohibiting discrimination in housing.

"We don't want to violate anyone's civil rights—that's our last intent," Mayor Pro Tem Bob Collins countered this morning. "Our hearing tonight is in response to a request from almost 2,000 citizens—that's more than normally vote in city elections."

"We are aware of the legal implications of our situation," he said. "They haven't told us anything in the letter that we didn't know already."

Mayor Norman Whitsitt pointed out that the city has retained Boyd, Veigel & Gay to advise the council on this project. The City Council and Planning and Zoning Commission are scheduled to meet in emergency executive session at 6:30 p.m. to discuss legal matters before the joint public hearing.

Both Whitsitt and Collins object to the first paragraph of HUD's letter which states that the city had the opportunity to comment or object to the proposed project this summer.

"The first paragraph is a real cop out on HUD's part," Whitsitt pointed out. "We had no room to object. Maybe today's letter has opened the door to objections, however. We'll know more after we talk with our attorneys."

Collins said he also resents HUD's accusation. He stressed that the city responded in line with the agency's published regulations.

When the city was notified of the project on June 24, the only grounds for objection were noncompliance with the Housing Assistance Plan (Plano has no such plan) or local zoning ordinances (the property was properly zoned).

Collins does believe, however, that the city was "very poorly alerted" to the project. He said it was not obvious at that time what the project meant.

Irving Statman, deputy area director of HUD, said today that even if the city had objected to the project, it would probably have been approved based on the department's grading system.

Each project is evaluated on the basis of such elements as site, city and North Central Texas Council of Governments comments, etc.

Negative comments have a potential impact of three points, according to Statman. He noted that HUD had sufficient funds available to fund all projects with a rating of 10 and up.

Plano's project had 16 points, he said, so even if three points were taken away on city comments, the project would have passed the cut.

Signal, Speed Limit

Traffic Plans Mulled

By CORDELIA COTTINGIM

Downtown merchants may get a change in the signal light to ease traffic at Avenue K and 15th Street but residents along Spring Creek Parkway have failed in their first attempt to reduce the 45 m.p.h. speed limit in front of their homes.

The Citizen Traffic Safety Support Commission last night accepted the recommendations of Tom Walton, city traffic control director, to study further the merchants' request and to deny the reduced speed on Spring Creek.

Walton said traffic buildup at the downtown intersection is "a technical problem" which may be resolved by adjusting the signal light system along Avenue K at 14th, 15th and 18th streets.

A left turn arrow for eastbound 15th Street traffic desiring to turn north onto Avenue K also will be studied and a proposal will be presented at the commission meeting next month. A left turn from 15th to K currently is prohibited between the hours of 7 a.m. and 7 p.m.

Spring Creek Parkway residents were told their street was planned in the late 1960s as a major east-west thoroughfare to serve the growing north Plano area and that the road was designed to quickly and safely transport vehicles at speeds of at least 50 m.p.h.

The homeowners who came to express concern for their children's safety did not walk away from the meeting empty-handed, however.

Walton reminded parents the City Council recently has approved the location of a crosswalk and a crossing guard at Rainier and Spring Creek to assist school children. Signs warning of the crosswalk already are in place, he said.

The commission, upon Walton's recommendation, also approved installation of a flashing light to further warn of the crosswalk and to reduce the speed limit from 45 to 30 m.p.h. for the service roads which separate Spring Creek from the homeowners' front yards.

The vote on the Spring Creek speed limit was split with James Barry voting against the motion to maintain the present speed and the following members supporting the motion: Harlene Boydston, Jim Elliot, Dan Flanagan, Mary Nell Armstrong and John Crawford.

The homeowners presented a petition they said contained names of 162 residents who favor the reduced speed. They described Spring Creek Parkway as "unique" in the city because homes directly front the heavily travelled road.

Walton agreed that the Spring Creek housing set-up "is not the most desirable way to develop that land" because "it generates just what it is generating here" (complaints from homeowners).

The residents also cited traffic noise and increased traffic flow resulting from the Sports Complex and additional home building as reasons for the need for a slower speed limit.

Walton and Police Sgt. Lee Davidson noted a recent five-day police study of speeding along Spring Creek showed that most motorists observed the 45 m.p.h. limit.

Speaking on behalf of the homeowners were Barbara and Paul Kelly of 1503 Spring Creek.

Addressing the commission on the need to solve downtown traffic congestion were attorney Byron Schaff and merchants Al O'Quinn and Brenda Carr.

The commission is an advisory body which makes traffic recommendations to the City Council. Its recommendations are not binding and final decisions are made by the council. Persons unhappy with commission recommendations may carry their requests directly to the council.

Elderly-Assisted Units Excluded In Development

The proposed Department of Housing and Urban Development project planned for Avenue N and Park Boulevard in Plano will accommodate non-elderly, low-income residents and will not be an elderly-assisted project as previously reported in some Daily Star-Courier news articles.

A project designed for the elderly was being considered for Plano at one time but the proposal was rejected.

HUD's plans currently call for 120 semi-detached row houses (12 two-bedroom, 48 three-bedroom and 60 four-bedroom units) and 24 walk-up units.

The Plano City Council will consider the project in a public hearing tonight in City Hall.

Program Urges 'Chemical Freedom'

(Editor's Note: This is the fifth in a series of six articles outlining the various aspects of teenage drug abuse in Plano).

By TERRI ANDERSON

There are a lot of teenagers in Plano who have drug problems, and the parents of those children shouldn't have to feel guilty about not raising a "Roger Staubach-type of kid."

That's the opinion of Ed Leach, a former alcoholic and drug addict who now directs the North Texas area Palmer Drug Abuse Program—a program which offers an alternative for people who use drugs.

"We say there's a big drug problem and Plano's is no different from any other town," Leach said. "The upper middle class kid is the kid who's 'not supposed' to have a drug problem, so a city like Plano has a difficult time accepting the fact that a drug problem doesn't mean there's moral degeneration in the community."

Leach looks back on his own teenage drug problem and his parents' reaction to it to offer comfort to the teens and parents of today.

As he sat in a Mexico City prison on drug charges, Leach said his parents suffered from their own guilt feelings.

"They were so embarrassed, so afraid, so paranoid that they didn't realize that they were okay," he explained. "They didn't realize that the fact that their child had a drug problem didn't mean they were bad people."

"Society puts pressure on parents to produce the perfect, 'Roger Staubach-type' kid", Leach added. "But who said Mom and Dad are responsible for everything—says who? Says the system, tradition."

Drugs, the PDAP director suggested, are a way for young people to handle what's happening. They represent a way to have fun, to cope, and serve as a "social lubricant."

"We don't see a difference between a drug user and a drug abuser," Leach emphasized. "Anyone who uses chemicals and gets high has a problem. Why is it a teenager who winds up getting kicked out of school because of drugs is a drug problem and a kid who gets high but has good grades and stays in school not?"

"If a teenager wants to get high, he will," continued the director. "Whether the system does everything it can do or not, they will still get high. But we offer people an alternative."

The Palmer Drug Abuse Program is a statewide organization that is beginning to branch out to other states. There are currently about 10 centers in the Dallas area which meet in local churches "because a church is free and because it offers us a degree of legitimacy," said Leach.

Twenty-seven Dallas area counselors, all of them former drug users who have been "chemical free" for at least one year, have gone through four to six months of training by psychologists and psychiatrists to learn how to help drug-using teenagers decide to live drug-free lives.

Funds for each center are collected within the community each center serves (one is being planned for Plano—see accompanying story this page). After the first year, Leach explains, the centers usually become self-supporting through contributions from satisfied parents.

Approximately 95 percent of the funds is used for salaries and for training counselors.

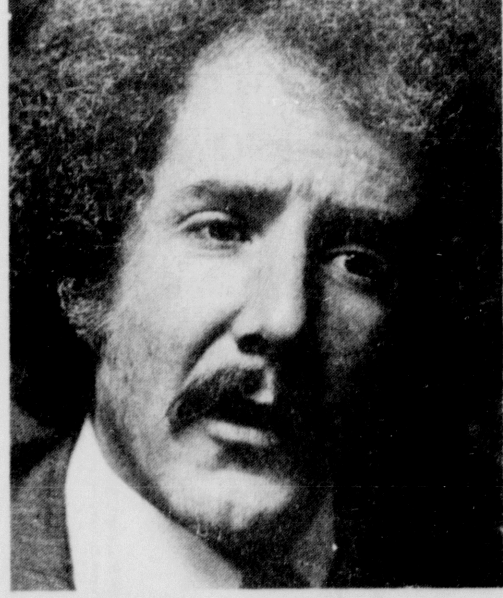

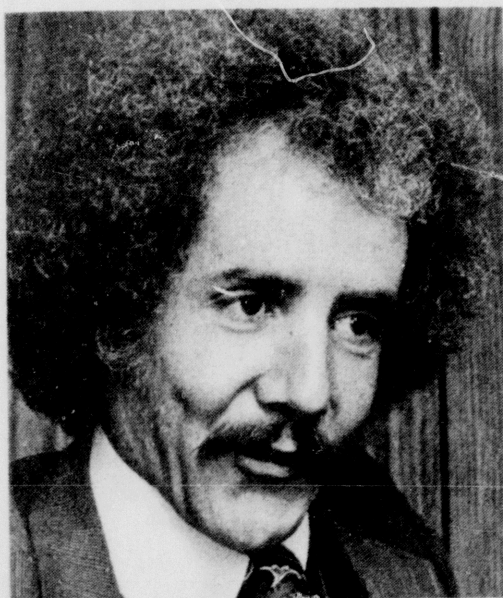

The only membership requirement is that a teenager entering the program cannot get high, or use drugs, while enrolled. Some 500 youngsters and 300 parents are presently involved in PDAP centers in the metroplex.

At a PDAP meeting, which is supported throughout the week by parties, picnics, 24-hour Round Robin meetings, etc., the former drug users participate in group discussions led by the trained Palmer counselors. Topics range from how to get along with parents and how to make it in school to how to keep from using drugs.

"They experience other youngsters their own age who are honest, open, sharing themselves," Leach said. "Kids are unbelievable. They're so upfront. And some way or another, we adults have trained them to shut the

Rotarians Undertake Palmer Drug Project

The Plano Rotary Club, made up of local business and community leaders, hopes to raise $20,000 by June 1 to initiate a Palmer Drug Abuse Program center in Plano.

Led by Rotarian Gary Basham, the club has adopted the project as its 1977 community service endeavor. The Rotary Club itself will make the initial donation for the PDAP center and will also donate all proceeds from the annual Rotarian Chili Supper held in early winter.

A committee has been formed to organize plans for the project. David McCall Jr. will contact local businesses for donations; Sherman Millender will coordinate the project with the school district; Larry Jackson is in charge of prospective industrial donations; Fred Kandler will seek to involve local churches; Chuck Stein is in charge of special Rotary Club projects; and Jim Nelson will handle public relations and advertising in connection with the PDAP endeavor.

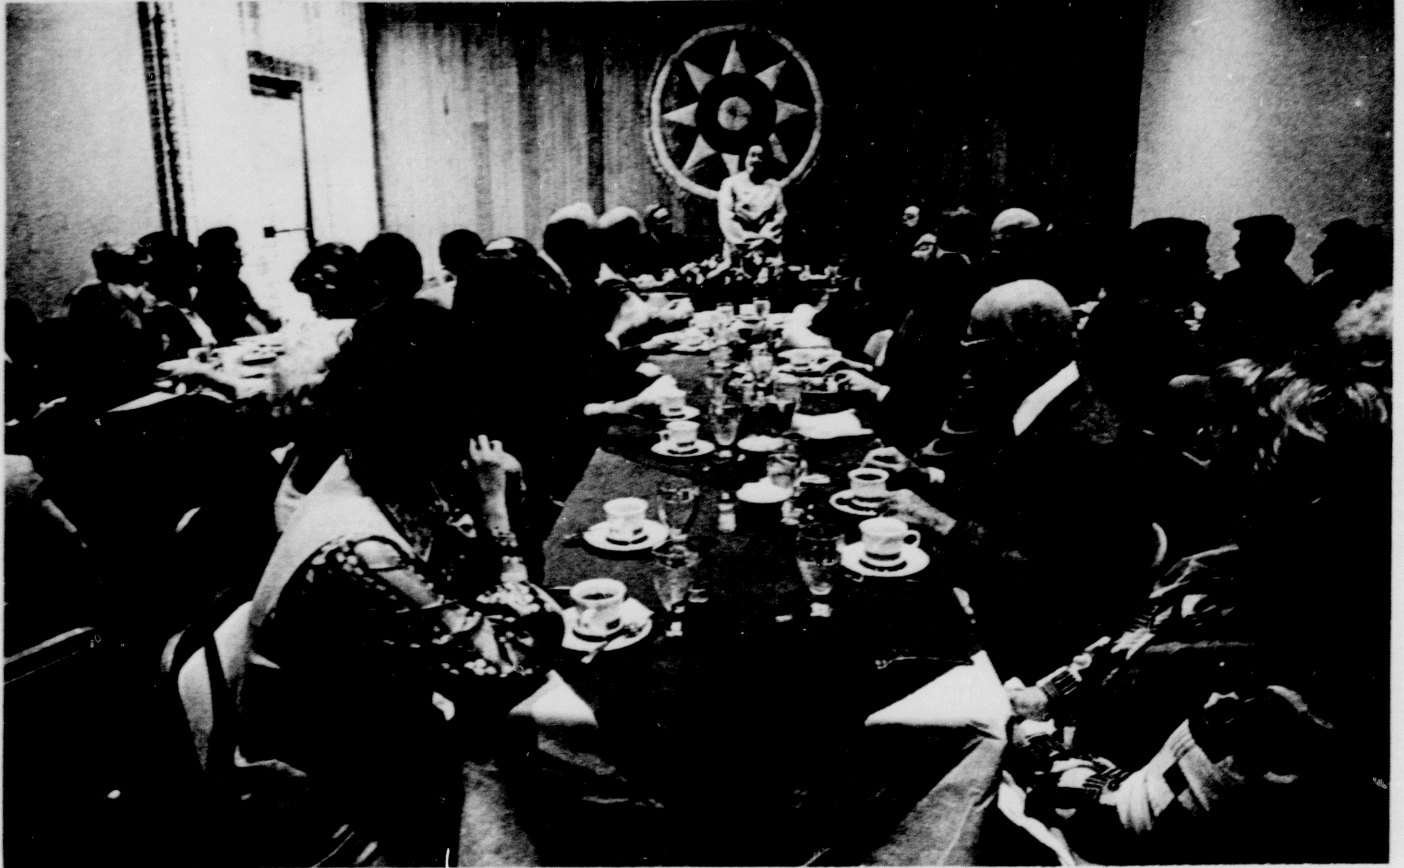

Plans also call for a savings account to be set up in the near future for donations from private citizens.

Hunt Properties Honored

The Plano Preservation Association presented its first "Ammie" award to Hunt Properties at a buffet luncheon yesterday at Los Rios Country Club. PHA President Joan Biggerstaff (left) described Hunt's contributions of money and land to the association and presented the award to Hunt representative Bill Hamm (above). City Councilman Bob Collins (below) was on hand to represent the city and "Ammie" award sculptress Carmen Haggard (below and below right) received a bouquet of roses from Mrs. Biggerstaff in appreciation of her work. prudes; and we're not Jesus freaks. I'm a realist. I'm not out to cure the world. I'm out to offer an alternative to the person who wants one.

"Drugs are a symptom of our times. I don't think we live with a bunch of sick young people. I believe it can be helped. Most kids don't know there's an alternative."

Because of his own experiences with drug addiction, Leach believes that drug users "don't have to reach a bottom." His question to parents is "If your child gets high, who are you to judge he doesn't have a problem" and to teenage drug users who refuse to look at themselves honestly, "If you don't think you have a drug problem, then you live with it."

Parents are welcome at the meetings because the PDAP's philosophy is that a drug problem is a family problem.

"What we offer is love, honest friendship, and we believe that love doesn't mean accepting wrong behavior," Leach noted.

"We're not evangelists; we're not radicals; we're not

STELLA S. JONES

Mrs. Stella S. Jones, mother of Plano resident Pauline Schick, died Nov. 29.

Mrs. Jones, 74, and a native of Strawn, had lived in Plano for the last year. Funeral services were to be held in Coleman with burial in Coleman City Cemetery.

Survivors in addition to Mrs. Schick include a son, William A. Stephenson of Coleman; another daughter, Mrs. Myra True of El Paso; a brother, Robert Ames of Smithfield; a sister, Mrs. Bessie True of Smithfield; eight grandchildren; and five great-grandchildren.

Local arrangements were handled by Harrington-Bratcher-Dickey Funeral Home.

Smith and Smith have proposed a 144-unit apartment complex on the northwest corner of Park Boulevard and Avenue N. The project would have a HUD guaranteed mortgage and tenants would be eligible for rent subsidies.

HUD believes the project would not have a significant adverse impact as a result of multifamily use since it had been zoned for that use.

"It would seem that in zoning the site in this manner, consideration was given to such matters as school population, traffic flow, general neighborhood development and similar concerns," the letter stated.

HUD hand-delivered several copies of the letter to city hall Wednesday, but the material was misaddressed and Collins was the only council member to receive his copy.

The text of the letter was released to Dallas newspapers Wednesday and the city received its certified copy at 7:55 a.m. today.

New DTC Show To Open Tuesday

Opportunity shows through the double doors of the Dallas Theater Center's Down Center Stage.

On a clear day, you can see it from Chicago.

That's how it happens that "Cigarette Man," will have its world premiere run Dec. 6-10, 13-17 and 27-31 at the Down Center Stage.

The premiere is a joint event shared with the Victory Gardens Theater in Chicago, where "Cigarette Man" is one of its four major productions.

Blomquist's play, in his words, concerns "plastic people...pursuing fragmented goals pieced together from nothing more substantial than bits of entertainment and advertising and superficial 'pop' ideologies."

"Cigarette Man" will be second of six making up the 1977-78 season for the Down Center Stage, the widely recognized 56-seat "mini-showcase" for new works by new playwrights.

The Dallas production, which is the 80th premiere for the Center, has been directed by Ken Latimer and produced by John Figlmiller, both members of the DTC's resident company.

Both season tickets and individual tickets are available at the box office, 3636 Turtle Creek Blvd., 526-8857.

THE RADIO HOBBYIST

By Frederick O. Maiz
KKB-0924 - W5UTT

Executive Director, American Radio Council

The FCC uses both unmarked regular automobiles and specially equipped vans. The cars used bear no special identification and are impossible to tell from other cars but the vans have license plates that indicate they are "U.S. Government" vehicles and the license plates always start with the letters-FC. The vans are loaded with intricate monitoring equipment for all frequencies-not just the Citizen's Band. In fact, very little monitoring of the CB airwaves actually take place from the vans. Most CB monitoring is done from the private vehicles that are equipped with portable directional loop antennas. The FCC is charged with the responsibility of regulating all radio and wire telecommunications-not just CB.

The FCC monitoring van even has a tape recorder for recording transmissions off-the-air for use in court at a later time. The FCC vehicle also carries complete information on all licensed radio operators and stations in the locality (commercial, CB and "ham") on microfilm that can be recalled instantly and displayed on a screen. Station and operator information can be accessed by call sign, location, name of license holder...also by assigned frequency and business name if a commercial station.

The FCC enforcement personnel usually travel in groups of 2 or 3 when inspecting an area. Locations of stations can easily be ascertained by triangulation-that is each vehicle gets a bearing on the illegally operating station and where the lines cross on a map is the location of the station. Once the illegal station is found-it is placed under radio surveillance for a few days. Then the inspector will knock on the door and ask to inspect the premises. If the inspection is denied by the operator-the licensee will usually lose his license without any further examination. Under the present system, and FCC engineer can not force his way into any home or station location. However, the FCC regulations provide for inspection by the commission and all radio-hobbyists agree to it as a condition to receiving their license.

FCC engineers can even determine if a CB station is running illegal power without seeing the linear amplifier. This is easily done by taking field strength readings at different distances from the stations and computing the antenna gain.

The FCC's Field Operations Bureau (the actual name of the enforcement division) places particular emphasis on the following six violations: (1.) Failing to use an FCC call sign, (2.) Using linear amplifiers to boost power above the 4 watt limit, (3.) Using illegal frequencies, (4.) Using indecent, obscene or profane language, (5.) Using CB radio to participate in a crime, (6.) Working "skip" or transmitting further than 150 miles. Penalties for all (except indecent language) could be $500 a day...using indecent language is a criminal violation subject to a $10,000 fine and a year in jail.

Serious infractions of the rules must be turned over to the Justice Department for prosecution. The FCC does, however, have the authority to levy "forfeitures" - FCC legal term for a fine. During September, the FCC mounted a massive four day nationwide crackdown of illegal CB radio operations. Over 100 agents fanned out in 30 areas in the wide ranging enforcement strikes. The crackdown resulted from the increasing number of interference complaints received by the FCC. Hundreds of violators were closed down permanently and fines totalling tens of thousands of dollars were collected. Fines ranged from $50 to $400 with $125, $225, $300 being commonplace.

Even though the FCC is doing their job as best they can, this federal agency is seriously understaffed and under funded. In the past 20 years, radio-hobbyist activity has expanded from zero to over 11 million participants using over 25 million radios! Projections are that there will be more than 20 million licensed CB'ers using 50 million two-way radios by 1979! With all this explosive growth you would expect the FCC budget would be keeping pace...but such is not the case. As a result, the Commission is unable to effectively administer and enforce the rules causing even more hardship to the legally operating radio enthusiasts. It is a sad situation-one that is not likely to improve until the Bureau of the Budget recognizes it's responsibility to the general public.

One answer would be to reinstate license fees with all the receipts going to finance administration and enforcement of radio rules. The radio hobby should pay it's own way we feel.

If you have any questions or comments regarding the radio hobby, please direct them to "THE RADIO HOBBYIST" column in care of this newspaper. Universally appealing questions will be covered in this column.

The AMERICAN RADIO COUNCIL is a national organization of radio hobbyists that are interested in improving their communications skills, technical knowledge and receiving increased radio privileges. For further information write: P. O. Box # 1171; Garland, Texas 75040.

Latest Record Album BBC Total Disaster

By GREGORY JENSEN

LONDON (UPI) — The latest record album from the British Broadcasting Corp. is a disaster.

Or rather, 65 disasters.

It starts with a raging fire, moves on to erupting volcanoes — one "with lava whooshes" — and sounds of the ground cracking into chasms in earthquakes.

A bit later a mine shaft collapses, a dam bursts and a train or two crash. There's the screaming sound of a fullscale riot, several collapsing buildings and a virtuoso collection of explosions.

"Disasters" is the 16th in the BBC's series of sound effects records for makers of home movies or amateur drama companies.

As disaster movies are big just now, "a repertoire to fit most contemporary disaster situations," to quote producer Derek Goom, seemed in order.

The fifth band of "Disasters" buzzes with swarming insects and thunders with animal stampedes.

There are three plane crashes, one as heard inside a crashing jet, a ship going aground and a sinister track entitled "Flood Water Rising (Interior)."

"The effects of this recording," Goom said, "are of those disasters that place the physical person at risk, the events which, all too often, provide the front page story in our newspapers."

Goom said such events are "usually irresistible" even when you prepare to face them.

That comforting thought obviously applies to "Storm at Sea Atmosphere (Drowning)" or to the slushy sounds of "Ice Melting Into Flood." But the definition hardly stretches to the last track on the album, "Reprisal Air Strike."

The record devotes from one second to one minute 22 seconds to each disaster. All 65 seem to be covered on the startling record jacket.

The one cataclysmic drawing by Andrew Prewett shows an erupting volcano, a bursting dam, a jet airliner disintegrating in flight, fires, explosions, a car hurtling off an earthquake-cracked road, a ship sinking, riots, a tornado, street fighting, people shooting and being shot.

collection are drawn from the inexhaustible BBC Sound Effects library," Goom said. Some sounds were especially created.

"Disasters" isn't apt to make a Top 20 lists.

But if you want a "General Purpose Rumble-Roar" for your next homemade catastrophe movie, or the screams and machine gun bursts of "Massacre," it may be just the thing.

DEAR POLLY - I would like to know how to keep cupcake papers from pulling away from the cupcakes after they have cooled. This happens every time I bake them. - MRS.G.D.
DEAR MRS. G.D. - I do not have an answer to your question but am sure we will be hearing from some of the many good cooks among our readers. - POLLY.

DEAR POLLY - I have discovered a great way to clean water marks off of a stainless steel sink. I rubbed mine with petroleum jelly so it now sheds water and should there by any spots left they can be swished away with the hand. - ANTHONY.

DEAR ANTHONY - My personal thanks for this Pointer. My stainless steel sink now looks satiny and smooth but I suggest that the petroleum jelly not be applied with too heavy a hand - a little bit goes a long way. - POLLY.

DEAR POLLY - I find it more practical and more economical to use three regular size pillows on my king size bed rather than two king size pillows. I buy a matching set of pillowcases in a regular size to match the sheet and use a complimentary plain color for the middle pillow and get two complete bed changes out of three sets of pillowcases.

When using shams on bed pillows use inexpensive foam filled pillows in the shams instead of your good down filled pillows and do not have to switch at night. Saves dressing and undressing those shams every day. - DOROTHY H.

DEAR POLLY - There are many procedures for ridding one's home of pests, I suppose, but our favorite harmless and totally effective way to evict mice is to sprinkle peppermint or spearmint extract in their hide-a-ways. They will abdicate the premises immediately and for good. If ants are a problem sprinkle talcum powder on their trails or wherever they gather and soon they will be conspicuous by their absence.

If roaches invade sprinkle dry boric acid where they congregate. These are nature's own repellents and not man-made pesticides or poisons. They are not harmful to children or pets so one has total ecological safety. - MR.D.H.D.

DEAR MR.D.H.D. - Thank you for your letter but I do not think your last two sentences should include the boric acid for roaches (often used for this) as my druggist informed me that should children or pets partake of too much it would be poisonous. - POLLY.

Polly will send you one of her signed thank-you newspaper coupon clippers if she uses your favorite Pointer, Peeve or Problem in her column. Write POLLY'S POINTERS in care of this newspaper.

100 Skills Included In ICT Program

By NANCY LONG
PISD Information Office
 Air conditioning mechanic, aircraft engine mechanic, cabinetmaker, carpenter, bricklayer, electrician, locksmith, dry cleaner, painter, paperhanger, neon sign serviceman, linotype operator and photographer. The lists extends on to include about 100 trade, industrial and health skills that Plano Senior High School students can be trained in through participation in the Industrial Cooperative Training (ICT) program.

 ICT is a work and study program in which local businesses, the school, teacher-coordinator and student all work together to accomplish the objective of training the student in a trade or skill.
 As in all five of the state and federally funded cooperative training programs offered at PSHS, the student spends half of his day in school and the other half receiving apprenticeship type training at a bona fide business or industry and is also earning a wage. In addition, the student receives nine credits towards graduation.

 Lynn Easley, ICT coordinator, reported that 42 junior and seniors are now involved in the program that has the state requirement of 2,000 hours actual on-the-job training and 350 hours of classroom study. Easley instructs the class as well as acts as the liaison between the student, employer, school, parents and the general public.

 The coordinator also has the job of finding employment for his students which is not always an easy task.
 "It is sometimes difficult to find decent training stations for the students as there are no large industries located in Plano," Easley said.
 The types of jobs which qualify for the ICT program are carefully scrutinized by the Texas Education Agency. Among the approved occupations that students can receive training in are dental assistant, television cameraman, tilesetter, x-ray technician, printer, radio repairman, dry cleaner, leather worker, motorboat mechanic, machinist and nurses aide. Easley's classroom instruction includes developing good job attitudes, job ethics, job safety, human relations and some specific instruction related to the chosen occupation of the students.

 The classroom time also gives students the opportunity to become involved in the Vocational Industrial Clubs of America which is a leadership program to help build self-confidence and develop leadership abilities.

 "ICT is a program for any student who wants to learn an occupation," Easley expressed. "But many students who get in the program to make money, find out they can gain other things as well."
 He explained that students get a feel of jobs by actual working experience that they might want to pursue as lifetime occupations. And they also learn a means of support to work their way through college or trade school.

Although technical training is offered at Plano Senior High in some areas, Easley pointed out that ICT allows students to receive training in certain areas without the school having to provide training labs located at the school. It also allows students who need to work to stay in school with a means of support.
 "ICT students have the opportunity to learn an occupation through skilled workers and craftsmen while getting paid and

Clark Urges Fans To Depart At 5:30 p.m.

Plano Athletic Director John Clark has issued suggested traveling and parking directions for Wildcat football fans. The directions will enable Plano Wildcat football fans to park on the correct side of Texas Stadium for easier access to their seats. Fans should go on LBJ (635) west to Stemmons Freeway (Interstate 35E) and travel south on Stemmons to the Loop 12 exit. Fans should then take the 114 exit off of Loop 12, crossover Highway 114, turn left on the stadium's access roads and enter gates 7, 8, and 9 into parking lots G, H, J and K. Plano fans will sit on the pressbox side of the stadium (Cowboy side). Clark suggests that fans leave Plano around 5:30 p.m. to avoid last minute traffic congestion.

Suggestions Given To Wildcat Fans On Stadium Parking

'Cats Lose To SGP

Plano Senior High's Wildcat basketball team record dipped to 2-3 following Tuesday night's loss to South Grand Prairie, 87-65 at South Grand Prairie.

The Wildcats trailed by only ten points going into the fourth quarter, but were outscored 29-11 in the final stanza.

Flip Redden led the 'Cats offense with 17 points. He was followed by Gerald Lee and Travis Benke both with 12 points.

"We had 25 turnovers," said JV Coach Gary Mosely, "that's what kept us out of the game, you just can't expect to win with that many."

Other scoring for the Wildcats came from Bill McKinney and Jamie Okry with six points, Richard Campbell with four points and Dane Herbel and Kirk Killingsworth both with four points also.

The JV had a little more success in their game which preceded the varsity by downing the home team South Grand Prairie 52-50.

The 'Cats trailed by six at the half, 32-26, but came back in the second half to earn the win.

Ree Smith was the leading point man for the Planoites with 16. He was followed by Lee Edwards with ten points, Larry Wallace, Kirk Waggoner and Joe Simmons all with six points and Chris Knowles with four points. Mark Haynes finished the game with two points.

Ducats Remain For Plano-HP

Highland Park - Plano Collide Saturday

By ED VOSS
Sports Editor

Tommy Kimbrough laid all the cards on the table this week in discussing his Plano Wildcats' next opponent in the Class AAAA state playoffs - the Highland Park Scots.

"Highland Park is the best team we've faced so far. But, that's the way it should be in the playoffs. You should be playing better teams the further you progress in the playoffs and that is certainly true in this case."

Highland Park's highly touted Scots and the Kimbrough coached Plano Wildcats meet Saturday at 8 p.m. at Irving's Texas Stadium in the schoolboy quarterfinals.

The game carries a lot of emotion on both sides. Kim-brough declined earlier in the week to trade game films with Scot Coach Frank Bevers and the situation has become highly publicized in the metroplex newspapers.

"What was said in the Dallas newspapers earlier was presented pretty accurately," Coach Kimbrough said. "We met and I declined to trade films. He didn't seem upset about it at that time, but we have discussed the situation since."

Preparation Edge

"Maybe, he (Bevers) is using the film incident as a motivation factor for his team," Coach Kimbrough said. It is pretty well accepted among both coaching staffs that Plano has an edge in preparation. Highland Park scouted Plano a maximum of two times (against Lufkin and Conroe) and they are only admitting to one scouting trip (Conroe).

Bevers made it clear in earlier published stories in Dallas newspapers that he felt his Scots would be playing Conroe in the quarterfinals, but instead Plano has surprised Bevers and much of the state in cruising to the quarterfinals.

Films play a key role in a high school team's preparation in the playoffs. Bevers says he doesn't have any Plano films from this season. Films from the Plano 17-7 win over Lufkin and the 28-9 win over Conroe aren't available to Bevers unless they come through Kimbrough. Plano made agreements with both Lufkin (the bi-district opponent) and Conroe (the regional opponent) not to provide Plano opponents with game films.

On the other hand, Plano has scouted several Highland Park games and has obtained Highland Park films from Scot's opponents such as the bi-district game with Carrollton Turner.

Comparable to Sherman

Coach Kimbrough has compared both the Lufkin and Conroe playoff opponents to Sherman, Sherman and Plano tied 14-14 in the regular season when Sherman was number one in the state. It was an edge over Sherman in first downs that Plano was able to win the District 13-AAAA representation rights and advance to this week's quarterfinals.

"Highland Park has an offense like Sherman's, if not better. Their defense is better than Sherman's and their kicking game is outstanding," Coach Kimbrough said.

Offensively, Highland Park, undefeated at 12-0 and District 10-AAAA winner, uses the veer formation, the same as Plano. Coach Kimbrough is impressed with the Scots' offense.

"The explosiveness of their offense impresses me," coach Kimbrough said. "They are able to score from any point of the field at any time. They have outstanding size in the line."

Conroe and Lufkin both threw 225 lb. linemen at Plano, which the Wildcats handled. However, Kimbrough says Highland Park's line is even bigger in the line, "if that is possible."

"Highland Park probably favors passing over running," added Kimbrough. "We expect them to continue that trend this week."

Plano hasn't faced many passing teams this season but last week stymied a barrage of passes from Conroe.

Kimbrough feels the key standouts to the Scot's offense are quarterback Lance McIlhenny, a sophomore who took over after three games, and his brother Lott McIlhenny at 205 lb. They are sons of former pro player Don McIlhenny.

Defensively, Highland Park runs a 2-9 formation which is very similar to a 4-3. Standouts are Robert Mullins and Richard Neeley at tackles, weighing 245 lb. and 240 lb. respectively, and Rusty Rice, linebacker at 225 lb.

"They also have an outstanding secondary," said Kimbrough.

Plano Bruised Up

Plano isn't expected to be at 100 percent for the Highland Park game. Several players sustained injuries against Conroe and all are listed as questionable.

Stevie Haynes, Plano's flanker-kicker, hasn't touched a ball this week. In case he doesn't play, that means two-way starter Billy Ray Smith, Plano's only player that is the son of a former pro grid great, would probably handle the kicking chores.

Kevin Rush, linebacker and tight end, is listed questionable also.

"We are pretty bruised up," Coach Kimbrough said. "We hope that our players will be ready physically in time."

Frank Bevers:

Highland Park Coach Outspoken On Plano

Highland Park's Coach Frank Bevers has a lot of words to say about this week's game with the Plano Wildcats. Following are just a few quotes from the head coach of the Scots about meeting Plano in the Class AAAA quarterfinals on Saturday at 8 p.m. at Texas Stadium; and surrounding controversy.

"I began to think something was up last Saturday morning when Kimbrough started out saying he really didn't see the need for exchanging films. When I called him back later that morning, he said he would definitely not be exchanging films. It was slightly shocking; the first time it has happened to me in 19 years of coaching. Believe me, I won't forget it." -Bevers on Plano Coach Tommy Kimbrough's refusal to trade game films.

"Without a doubt, Plano is the toughest defensive team we've faced. We have to put it all on the line for this game. Whoever wins this will probably go on to the state finals." -Bevers on Plano's defense.

"I promise you, we'll find a recent Plano film somewhere, to show the kids before our week of preparation is up. We'll go in a back door somewhere and get it, but we will. I just have a hunch we will. But, I'm not going to forget this, ever." -Bevers on obtaining a Plano game film.

"I feel like a pig that has been left hanging, and I'm squealing." -Bevers on the film incident.

"I can tell you this. There is going to be a train wreck in Texas Stadium Saturday night. There is going to be some hitting. These kids will rally around this thing. And I think the team that wins here is going to the state finals, if we don't kill each other first." -Bevers on the game and the films.

"There is no doubt there is a lot of emotion riding on this game, a lot of pride. Since we're moving into District 13-AAAA next season, both teams are anxious this first meeting is successful." -Bevers on this week's Plano, Highland Park playoff matchup.

Warriors On Top

Coach Ike Brown's sophomore basketball team at Williams High School improved their record to 3-2 Monday night with a 64-54 win over Lewisville.

"It was a good game for us. We played everybody and it is always good to play everyone and win like we did. Our players did a good job against them because we were at a height disadvantage," Coach Brown said.

Jack Crain ripped the net for 30 points followed by Scott Stanley and King Sloan with 11 points each. Danny Muller contributed three points and two points were registered by Randy Morris, Paul Marvin, Scott Hall and Steve Chambliss. Keith Rushing had one point. Sloan and Chambliss led the defense with seven and six rebounds respectively.

'out'a bounds'

Ed Voss, Sports Editor

Superman is not just a fictional character found in comic books or old television reruns.

There is an actual Superman and I have witnessed his exploits. Superman has always been described as a mild-mannered white man wearing red trunks and red cape over blue leotards with a large emblazoned "S" on both his chest and cape.

Well, I was quite surprised upon meeting Superman that he didn't wear red and blue and in fact he wasn't a white man. Superman is a black man, young and muscular, and he wears white and burnt orange.

Superman doesn't have a big "S" on his chest, but instead has just a number, "20". I know this person was the real Superman because when even the fiercest of football players, the Texas Aggies, stood in his way, he simply shoved them aside and continued on his way.

Superman has a name and it is not Clark Kent. His title is Earl Campbell and perhaps the only way opposing teams will ever stop him is with Kryptonite. But I don't think Kryptonite would do any good either since Earl is from Tyler...unless they threw it at him.

Earl Campbell is one of those rare football players that worked hard to get where he is at, he is very personable and takes time to speak to his fans which number many, he never shuns giving an autograph no matter how hurt he is after a game.

There have been many stories about Earl and his football days at the University of Texas as the Longhorn's star fullback the past four seasons. There are tales of his playing days at Tyler John Tyler.

Tyler John Tyler and the Plano Wildcats were bi-district rivals in 1973 and in the playoffs the Lions of Tyler ran over, around and through Plano. Actually, only one runner did all of that and he was Earl Campbell.

After the playoff with Plano, Tyler advanced to regional and played Conroe. Campbell was hurt by the massive Conroe linemen and taken to a hospital in the first half for x-rays. Tyler without Campbell was losing to Conroe, but Earl returned with negative results from the hospital and returned to the gridiron and sparked Tyler to victory.

Tyler went on to win the Class AAAA State Championship with Earl Campbell leading the way. Now, four years later, Earl Campbell is leading the University of Texas Longhorns to a National Championship. Only one obstacle lies in the way, Notre Dame, but I don't think even the Pope has a chance against Superman.

Rec Center Adds Games

Some new added attractions have been added to the Williams Recreation Center. The additions to the center were for children as well as adults to come and play while waiting for mom to finish a class or waiting for dad to finish playing basketball.

The new additions are a new rocket hockey table (much like air hockey), skittles, shuffleboard and a new game called "Fore-Par" (or better known as table golf).

The recreation center is located within Williams High School, using the North portion of the building. Those visiting the center would do best by entering through the door by the Natatorium.

The center is expecting more ping pong tables and table soccer tables in January. Watch for tournaments that will be held in February.

The usual hours of operation are as follows: Mon.-Fri. 4-10 p.m., Sat. 10 a.m. thru 10 p.m., and Sun. 1-5 p.m., please call in reference to their availability, 424-0317.
